The Measure of a Man

Steve Martin said, "By the time a man realizes that maybe his father was right, he usually has a son who thinks he's wrong." I think all fathers can relate to that quote. Happy Father's Day to all our dads here today. This morning I am sharing a special message that I have entitled, "The Measure of a Man's Heart." I wrote this message with our fathers in mind but also all men who can serve as spiritual father figures. There are a lot of different ways the world measures what a man is or what a father should be, but we ought to be more concerned with what the Lord says about the measure of a man.

In the Old Testament, the Lord commissions Samuel to anoint the next king of Israel to replace King Saul. He was sent to the house of Jesse and when Samuel saw Jesse's oldest son, Eliab, he was impressed with what he saw. "Surely, this is the man the Lord wants me to anoint," thought the prophet (1 Samuel 16:6). But God told Samuel, "Don't look at his appearance or how tall he is, because I have rejected him. God does not see as humans see. Humans look at outward appearances, but the LORD looks into the heart" (1 Samuel 16:7, GWT). David, the youngest son, ended up being God's choice – he was imperfect but faithful, he was a man after God's heart. God does not judge the way the world judges – the Lord measures the heart of man.
